DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 3/14/07 has been entered.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 17 and 23 are objected to because of the following informalities:
“grove”(claim 17, line 6, claim 32, line 2) should have been:-- groove--.
“a socket housing” (claim 23, line 2) should have been changed to:-- in a socket housing--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 17-22 are also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lai et al (5,833,483).

Lai et al disclose the product by process including the forming at least one groove in a socket housing 100 or 300 contiguous to a surface mount region for an electrical device 1, securing a rigid bar or shaft 200 within the groove to thereby ensure that the surface mount region is flat (see Figs. 2-4) , wherein no portion of the rigid bar extends outside the at least one groove this is considered to be met by the Lai reference at well (refer to Fig. which shows that the shaft is being within the groove as slot 120 or 330

As applied to claims 18-19, refer to Lai's Fig. 4, which shows the groove is in form U shaped, and the rigid bar as rod 200.

As applied to claim 20, the Lai et al disclose the at least two grooves contiguous to socket housing (see Fig. 2).

As applied to claims 21-22, the Lai et al disclose the bar as actuator member 200 is a rod member.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 23-25 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lai et al (5,833,483).

Lai et al do not teach the U shaped groove being contiguous in three side of the socket. Regarding to this, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to choose any desired reinforcement member and grooves within the socket housing since applicant has not disclosed that the claimed U shaped grooves in three side of the surface mount region of the socket would solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the invention would perform equally well with the at least two U shaped grooves on the socket housing as taught by Lai et al.

As applied to claims 24-25, noting the Lai et al teach the limitations of claims 24-25 such as shaft 200 is a rod member.

As per claim 32, the Lai et al disclose the U-shaped grooves formed on each side of the socket etc.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 31 and 33 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
